

BALANCING INNOVATION & OVERSIGHT

Navigating the Impact of Technology
Across Industries

Join the University of Richmond Journal of Law and Technology for the 31st annual symposium, exploring the evolving field of law and technology. This year's theme will guide discussions on how technology is reshaping key sectors.

The symposium will feature three panel discussions exploring how technology has impacted the intellectual property sector, the business sector, and constitutional rights. The event will examine the implications of these new technologies, as individuals and businesses in these areas navigate the balance between innovation and oversight. Discussions will focus on how they are adapting, reshaping their operations, strategies, and approaches to stay competitive in a rapidly evolving digital landscape, while also addressing the need for regulation and responsible use. 3.0 Virginia CLE credits pending. Registration is free, but required.
